

GENERAL INDEX.

VOL. XIV. NEW SERIES.

the, a romance, 254, et seq.;
 sketch of the tale, 254; scene between Land Græme and Magdalen at St. thbert's cell, ib.; introduction of Roland to the mother abbess, 256; Roman Catholics of the author's tales, better than his presbyterians, 258; ceremonial of consecrating an abbot, 259; interview of Roland with the Regent, 261; introduction of Roland to the queen, 263; the escape, 265; general estimate of the author's productions, 268.

Camões's Life and Writings of Camoens, 29, et seq.; remarks on the genius of Camoens, 359; on analogical parallels, ib.; translation an inadequate and fallacious expedient, 360; liberties taken with the Lusiad by Mickle, 361; sonnet, 'alma minha gentil,' and version, 362; Southey's version of the same, 363; on the rimas of Camoens, ib.; notice of Bernardes, 364; sonnet, 'O que long' lost,' 364; two sonnets by Southey, 365; lines written at Sofala, 366; sketch of the life of Camoens, 366—71.

Ca, Mollien's Travels in, 10, et seq.;
 'Leod's voyage to, 198.

Caenists, the, 194.

Caenia, internal condition of, improved by Ali Pasha, 541.

Caia Pasha, his birth and parentage, 526;
 conduct of his mother during his minority, 527; outrage of the Gardikiotes, ib.; Pasha's dreadful retaliation, 528; meets the reverses in his first exploits, 529; renders his services to his enemies, 530; becomes a leader of banditti, 531;
 his successes and cruelty, 532; secures the pashalic of Joannina by stratagem, 533; disastrous expedition against the Suliots, 534; stratagem of a Suliote to obtain provisions, 536; evacuation of Suli and massacre of the Suliots, 537; intrigues of Ali with France, 538; his presence of mind when summoned by the grand vizir, ib.; his further acquisitions, 539; estimate of his character, ib.; anecdote of his self-command and fortitude, 540; anecdote of the rival assassins, 541; present state of Albania, ib.; remarks on the probable results of Ali's conquests, 542; Ali believed to have had a secret agreement with Sir Thomas Maitland, 545.

America and her Resources, Bristed on, 23, et seq.; prospects of, 30; religious condition of, 43; Episcopacy in, establishment of, 120; discontent of emigrants in, 581.

America, South, Voyage to, 172;* remarks on S. A. affairs, 182;* see Brackenridge.

Ana, on the passion for, 190.

Artigas, biographical sketch of, 175.*

Athanasian Creed, Lord Carnarvon's declaration respecting the, 184;* Dr.
 Nares's defence of the, 185;* see Nares and Horne.

Athens, dilapidations of, 317; new literary association in, 318.

Autumn near the Rhine, 157, et seq.; remarkable transactions which give an interest to the banks of the Rhine, 158; impolicy of dissolving the Rhenish confederation, 159; strange allotments of territory in the new partitioning of Germany, 160; change in the appearance of Mentz, 161; dutchess of Saxe Weimar, ib.; diet of Frankfort, ib.; elector of Hesse Cassel, ib.; Carlsruhe and Baden, 162; the vehu-

INDEX.

- gericht*, 163; king of Württemberg, ib.; course of the Rhine, 164; letter from the Author, 299.
- Barton's Inquiry into the causes of the depreciation of labour, 46, et seq.; over-population only recently complained of, 47; progressive reduction of husbandry wages, ib.; this reduction not attended by proportionate sufferings, 48; character of the poor misrepresented in the Commons' Report, 49; futility of the accusation, ib.; present excess of population not chargeable on the poor laws, 50; arises in part from improved healthiness, 51; relative decrease in the number of births in the agricultural countries, ib.; and of houses, 52; depopulating effects of large farms, 53; true cause of the depreciation of labour, the rise of prices, 54, et seq.; fluctuations in wages since the reign of Henry VII., 57; Mr. B. denies that the employer has any control over wages, 58; fallacy of his statement exposed, 59; author's new plan for lessening the supply of labour, 62, et seq.; anecdote illustrative of the superior force of a stimulus applied to the hopes, rather than the fears of the poor, 65; importance of raising the character of the labourer, 66.
- Bergen-op-zoom, attack on, 288.
- Bernardes, Diogo, the poet, notice of, 564.
- Bible Societies established in the Ionian Islands and at Athens, 315, 318.
- Biblical Interpretations, principles of, 79; fanciful schemes of, exposed, 342.
- Biography, purpose of, 359.
- Bishop's Beloved Disciple, 190,* et seq.; design of the volume, 190;* unguarded remark respecting just limits of intercourse with heretics, ib.; author's deference to private judgement, carried too far, 191;* extract from 'John during the forty days', ib.; et seq.
- Bonaparte's, Louis, historical documents on the government of Holland, 67, et seq.; character of Louis as a king and an author, 68; his ancestry, 69; misrepresentation of Paoli, ib.; absurd anecdote, 70; marriage of Louis to Hortensia, ib.; death of the duke d'Enghien ascribed to intrigue, 71; Bonaparte's policy with respect to Holland, ib.; Louis proclaimed king, 72; his first steps commended, ib.; his scheme of a monarchical constitution, ib.; other schemes and speculations of the Dutch Solon, 73; letter from Napoleon to Louis, 74; explosion at Leyden, ib.; remarks on the Copenhagen expedition, 75; sequel of Louis's history, 76.
- Botany, remarks on the study of, 288; see British botanist
- Brackenridge's Voyage to South America, 172,* et seq.; object of the mission to which the author was attached, 172;* reflections of a republican at the first sight of royalty, ib.; appearance of Monte Video, 173;* Artigas, 174;* biographical sketch of Artigas, 175;* first sight of Buenos Ayres, 176;* nature of the population, 177;* interview of the commissioners with Pueyrredon, 178;* Alvarez and Rondeau, 179;* San Martin, 180;* scene of Morillo's defeat in the island of Margaritta, 182;* exceptions to the author's style, ib.; sensible remarks on the aspect of South American affairs, ib.
- Bradley's Sermons, vol. ii. 333, et seq.; contents, 333; extracts from sermon on the repentance of Judas, 334; ditto from 'the fear of Peter when walking on the sea', 336; requisites in a sermon, 338; remarks on the proper subjects of practical preaching, 340; the motives peculiar to Christianity, not brought to bear upon the minds of Christians, 341.
- Bray's Memoirs illustrative of the Life and Writings of Evelyn, 137, et seq.; see Evelyn.
- Bristed's America and her Resources, 23, et seq.; pretensions and objectionable sentiments of the author, 23, et seq.; conquest and barter, 25; contrariety of sentiment between different sections of the United States, 26; the Americans all geographers, 27; probable consequences of a warlike spirit in the Americans, 28; inconvenience of a pure representative government, 29; growing preponderance of the Western states, 30; remarks on the seat of government, 31, et seq.; on frequency of elections, 34; political effects of Franklin's philosophy, 37; bad policy of excessive frugality in state matters, ib.; dangers of a democracy, 39; evils arising from precocious publicity, 41; religious condition of the United States, 43; calmness in religion characteristic of the people, ib.; Dr. Priestley, 44; effect of the non-interference of the State in religion, 45.
- British Botanist, the, 288, et seq.; remarks on the study of botany, 288; contents of the work, 289.

Brown's, M
194, et s
Holland
ring for p
Buenos Ay
Burder's V
100; co
requisite
lects, ib.
Burrows's
128, et specting
a bodily
of ment reports o
partment
the Yor improve insanity
cide not
than on not the Roman C
derangen
asm, 13
seau, ib
work, i Burnside's
seq.; c
work, 5
his addre
tual fea
on the
on the vi
506; re
on the m
the spiri
on aban
chance,
absurd
langua
cession
substitu
dorem
real virt
of relig
availabl
nomina toward
on the i
being p
of the
of the
sure con
thor's
presum
verence
proach
phrased
consul 523;

INDEX.

own's, Margaret, Lays of Affection, 94, et seq.; ode on the subjugation of Holland, 195; lines on hearing the bell ringing for public worship, 196.

Penos Ayres, description of, 176*.

Purder's Village Sermons, vol. viii. 99, 100; contents and character, 99; requisites for preaching, 100; collects, ib.

Ricci's Inquiry relative to Insanity, 128, et seq.; ancient opinions respecting insanity, 128; how far it is a bodily disease, 129; curable nature of mental disorder, 130; deficiency of reports of medical practice in this department, 131; La Salpetriere and the York Retreat compared, 132; improvements in Bethlehem, &c. ib.; insanity not on the increase, 133; suicide not more prevalent in England than on the Continent, 134; religion not the cause of insanity, 135; why Roman Catholics furnish no instances of derangement caused by religious enthusiasm, 136; Cowper, Swift, and Rousseau, ib.; general character of the work, ib.

Robinson's Religion of Mankind, 501, et seq.; character and contents of the work, 501; author's design stated, 503; his address to his readers, 504; intellectual features of author's character, ib.; on the reality of the future state, 505; on the vision of God in the heavenly world, 506; resurrection of the good man, 507; on the misery resulting from a re-union of the spirit with the body to the wicked, 508; on abandoning the concerns of eternity to chance, 509; extreme danger as well as absurdity of such conduct, 510; author's language partakes too much of concession, 511; virtue not available as a substitute for piety, 512; splendid endowments or achievements do not imply real virtue, 513; nor constitute any ground of religious hope, 514; benevolence not available without piety, ib.; infidelity of nominal believers, 515; author's leaning towards quakerism, 517; imagined effect on the irreligious, of the bulk of mankind being pious, ib.; on the immense number of the irreligious, 518; glorious number of the good man's associates, 519; pleasure compatible with religion, 520; author's language incautious, ib.; on presumption in religion, 521; on the reverence with which God ought to be approached, 522; on ludicrous and vulgar phraseology in the pulpit, &c. ib.; on consulting the prejudices of an audience, 523; reprehensible nature of the policy recommended, 524; austerity not the error of the day, 525; on the reception the saint will meet with in the heavenly world, ib.

Camoens 'the Portuguese Homer,' remarks on the parallel, 559; sonnets by, 562, et seq.; his parentage and early life, 566; misfortunes in India, 568; base conduct of the governor of Sofala, 569; return of Camoens to Lisbon, 570; his poverty and death, 571; see Adamson.

Catacombs of San Giovanni, 307.

Charles I, death of, notice of, 146.

Charles II, public entry of, 154.

Clarke, Dr. A. his notion of the Divine omniscience analysed, 383.

Clout's Collection of Hymns, 193, * et seq.; Dr. Watts in danger of being superseded, 193; * insufficient pleas for introducing new hymn books, 194; * psalmody not adequately attended to, 195; * exceptionable hymns in Dr. Watts's book, ib.; a hymn book for public service only, a desideratum, 196; * merits of Mr. C.'s appendix, 197; * hymn 603 by Mr. Montgomery, ib.; version of Psalm cxxx. by the same, ib.

Collier's Poetical Decameron, 318, et seq.; remarks on black-letter lore, 318; plan of the work, 319; perverted ingenuity of Steevens, as a commentator on Shakspeare, 320; 'a strange and terrible wonder,' 321; the dung-cart and the courtesan, 322.

Colonial Policy, works on, 131; * fatuity of, 132.*

Constitution, English, state of the, 191.

Cornwall's Dramatic Scenes, &c. 323, et seq.; stanzas on women, 323; author's literary retrogression, 324; extract from 'the broken heart,' 324; extract from Diego de Montilla, 327; the love sick maid, 328; character of 'Marcian Colonna,' and extract, 330; advice to the author, 331; stanzas, 'she died,' &c. 332.

Crayon's Sketch Book, vol. ii. 220, et seq.; singular merit of the work in point of style, 220; portrait of Ichabod Crane, 221; Shakspeare's descendant, 222; reflections at Stratford on Avon, ib.; portrait of John Bull, 223.

Creeds, the three, Dr. Narce's discourses on, 184, * et seq.

Cromwell's death and funeral, 151.

Dahomy, boundaries of, 199; * customs and superstitions of, ib.

INDEX.

- Day, Thomas, character of, 368; educates two orphans, 370; is sent to France by his mistress, 371; marriage and death, 372.
- Delany's, Mrs., Letters, 274, et seq.; royal parties, 275; anecdote of the late queen, 276; contrast between the old and the new reign, ib.
- Delaval, Sir F. anecdotes of, 366, 7.
- Democracy, dangers incident to, 39.
- Drama, the, injurious influence of the stage upon, 87.
- Ear of Dionysius, 309.
- Edgeworth's Memoirs, 359, et seq.; on the purpose of biography, 359; remarkable instance of Irish fidelity, 360; anecdote of Lady Edgeworth, 361; early religious feelings of Mr. E., 362; his first marriage, 363; dying sentiment of Mr. E.'s mother, ib.; remarks on the vulgar idea of retribution, ib.; Mr. E. becomes a mechanist, 364; anecdote of Sir Francis Delaval and Foote, 365; melancholy end and confession of Sir F. Delaval, 366; Mr. E.'s introduction to Dr. Darwin, 367; character of Mr. Day, 368; experiment of Rousseau's principles of education, ib.; Mr. Day resolves to educate two girls, 370; gives away Lucretia in marriage, ib.; brings Sabrina to Litchfield, 371; is sent to France by Miss E. Sneyd to learn to dance, &c. ib.; Sabrina revenged, 372; sequel of her history, ib.; Mr. E. falls in love with Honora Sneyd, 373; his second and third marriages, ib.; appointed aide de camp to lord Charlemont, 374; his fourth marriage, ib.; domestic felicity of Mr. E. 375; the family obliged to flee from Edgeworth Town, by the rebels, 376; description of their return, 377; melancholy impression produced by the characteristic irreligion of Mr. Edgeworth, 378.
- Elections, popular, objections to their frequency, 34.
- Elton's Brothers and other Poems, 387, et seq.; prejudices against monodies examined, 387; motives for publishing the records of private feeling explained, 388; St. Vincent's rock, 389; to a young lady, 391; sabbath musings, ib.
- Emigrants in America, discontent of, 581.
- Episcopacy in America, historical notices respecting, 121.*
- Essays and Sketches by a gentleman who has left his lodgings, 188, et seq.; description of the incognito, 188; reasons for supposing him not to be the wandering Jew, ib.; remarks on society in London, 188; on the passion for anecdotes, 190; on political economy, ib.; on the state of the English constitution, 191; ministerial patronage, 193; power of the press, ib.; the alarmists, 194.
- Essenus on the First Three Chapters of Genesis, 230, et seq. see Jones.
- Etna, ascent up, 310.
- Evelyn's Memoirs, 137, et seq.; and 582, et seq.; character of Evelyn, 137; public appointments held by him, 139; notice of his father, ib.; witnesses the death of lord Strafford, 140; embarks for the continent, 141; visits Rome, ib.; stands godfather to two proselytes, 142; description of Naples, ib.; kisses the pope's toe, 143; epitaph on St. Richard of England, 144; inventory of the Tesoro di San Marco, ib.; studies at Padua, ib.; description of Verona, 145; interview with Diodati, ib.; marries and returns to England, ib.; notice of the death of Charles I., 146; notices relating to the state of religion during the protectorate, ib. et seq.; remarks on the statements of Evelyn, 148; Mr. Gunning interrupted in the midst of Divine service at Exeter chapel, 149; remarks on the outrage, 150; Cromwell's death and funeral, 151; historical notices, 1659, 60, ib. et seq.; Morley's conduct, 153; public entry of Charles II., ib.; remarks on the loyalty of the times, 154; notices relating to the first acts of the new reign, 155; Evelyn's letters, 582; letter of thanks from Jeremy Taylor to Evelyn, ib.; extract from another letter from the same, 583; letter from Evelyn to his brother on the death of a child, ib.; notice of the death of his own son, 584; letter from Jeremy Taylor on the occasion, 585; letter to the dutchess of Newcastle, 587; letter to lord Godolphin touching the poor laws, elections, &c. 388; extracts from Mrs. Evelyn's letters, 590; extracts from tract on 'sumptuary laws,' 591; notice of remaining contents of the volumes, 593.
- Foote, anecdote of, 365.
- Foreknowledge of God, Timms on, 382.
- Poster on Popular Ignorance, 205, et seq.; evils of popular ignorance not generally appreciated, 205; design and construction of the present essay, 207; inaptitude of the mind to take the due impression of an adequate representation of human misery, accounted for, 208; debasing effects of ignorance

knowledg
error,
ancient
fect of th
ness conn 214; or in a cath
mass in
in the re
characte
mental country
recently
upon th
tion, 22
arising o
221; r
tion, 22
the move
heavy
tence
226; s
by the prospect
charact
Fry's Lyr
on the tions of extrav
of inter
that th
person
'the j
the Re
plicatio
347; c 348;
ib., a 14, 34
of Ps
errone
note o
version
its ern
speci
version 357.

Gandy's Gell and
seq.;
closu
muse
illust
and c 148;
peii
of the
ib.;
hum

I N D E X.

ignorance among the Jews, 209; partial knowledge coincident with destruction of Jerusalem, 210; hopeless darkness of the ancient heathens, 212; demoralizing effect of their mythology, 213; wretchedness connected with this mental darkness, 214; origin of Popery, 215; reflections on a cathedral, 216; state of the popular mass in the reign of Elizabeth, 217; in the reign of Anne, 218; picturesque character of the author's style, ib.; mental condition of the people in this country, bettered by the moral means recently created, 219; evils attendant upon the actual state of the population, 220; dangers of popular ignorance arising out of political aspect of the times, 221; religion involves mental cultivation, 223; futility of attempts to repress the movement in the popular mind, 224; heavy responsibility which the existence of popular ignorance entails, 226; spectacle presented to the Christian by the moral state of the world, 227; prospect of a brighter era, 228; literary character of the author, 229.
 y's Lyra Davidis, 342, et seq.; remarks on the danger of fanciful interpretations of Scripture, 342; reprehensible extravagance of the author's scheme of interpretation, 344; his assumption that the Psalms do not refer to David personally, confuted, 345; the phrase 'the just one,' not a designation of the Redeemer, 346; author's misapplication of Psalms i. iii. xii. and xiii. 347; erroneous gloss on Psalm xv. 5, 348; misapplication of Psalm xxiii. ib.; author's version of Psalm xiv. 11—14, 349; remarks on ditto, ib.; version of Psalm xxv. 4—7, and note, 351; its erroneousness exposed, 352; curious note on Psalm xxvii. 10, 353; author's version of Psalm xxii. and note, 353; its erroneousness exposed, ib.; further specimens of misinterpretation, 355; version and exposition of Psalm cxviii. 357.

Gandy's Pompeiana, see Gell.

Gell and Gandy's Pompeiana, 144,* et seq.; reflections on the sudden disclosure of a buried city, 144;* royal museum at Portici, 146;* graphical illustrations of Pompeii, 147;* plan and contents of the present volume, 148;* different appearance of Pompeii and Herculaneum, 149;* nature of the deposit by which Pompeii is covered, ib.; result of the excavations, 150;* human relics in the strata, 151;* feelings of the ancient Romans in respect to sepulture and monuments, 152;* wax-work immortality, 153;* street of the tombs, ib.; tomb of Scaurus, 154;* tomb of Nævoleia Tyche, ib.; structure of the walls, 155;* ancient inn, ib.; dwelling houses, 156;* ancient paintings, 157;* household furniture, ib.; miscellaneous relics, 158.*
 George III, anecdotes of, 275; sonnet on the death of, 183.

Gerning's, Von, Picturesque Tour along the Rhine, 1, et seq.; historical associations connected with the river, 1; its various character, 2; Mentz, 4; the Rheingau, 6; Nieder-Ingelheim, 7; convent of Noth-gottes, legend respecting, ib.; Archbishop Hatto's mice-tower, 8; Iohannes de Wesalia, ib.; Newied, ib.; merits of the publication, 9, 10.
 Gorham's Eynesbury and St. Neot's, 572, et seq.; Huntingdonshire without an historian, 572; author's apology for antiquarian pursuits, ib.; biography of St. Neot, 573; monastic speculation of relics, 574; Mr. Whitaker's theory respecting St. Neot controverted, 575; antiquarian ingenuity exercising itself on a defaced inscription, 578.

Harris's Remarks during a Tour in the United States of America, 581; discontent of emigrants, ib.

Haslam on Sound Mind, 268, et seq.; instinct contradistinguished from reason, 271; character of the work, 273; author's notion respecting the connexion between speech and memory objected to, ib.; Mr. H. a disciple of Horne Tooke, 274.

Hatto's, archbishop, mice-tower, 8.

Heger's Tour through the Netherlands, &c. 578, 9; the author possessed of 'a kind of talent,' 571; specimen, 579.

Hoare's Memoirs of G. Sharp, 105*, et seq.; character of the work, 105; character of Mr. Sharp, 108*; his parentage and early life, 109*; Mr. Sharp's account of his apprenticeship, 110*; engages in theological controversy with a Socinian and a Jew, ib.; his controversy with Kennicott, 111*; befriends Jonathan Strong, 112*; G. S.'s memoranda of the affair of Jonathan Strong, 113;* further exertions in the cause of negroes, 114;* tract on the nullum tempus act, 114*; his correspondence with America, 116*; notice of his 'declaration of the people's natural rights to a share in the legislature,' ib.; musical concerts on board Messrs. S.'s yacht, 117*; Mr. Sharp interests himself on the subject of impressment, 118*; his interview with Dr. Johnson, ib.; his exertions to promote parliamentary reform, 120*; endeavours to promote episcopacy in America, 121*; his Sierra Leone scheme, 122*; his conduct on that occasion characterized, 123*; his financial means compared with his exertions, ib.; formation of the society for abolishing the slave trade, 124*; G. S.'s protest against its restricted designation, ib.; presides at the first general meeting of the British and foreign bible society, 125*; chosen a director of the African institution, ib.; appointed chairman of the 'protestant union,' 126*; his death, ib.; his benevolence, ib.; beneficence and piety, 127*; his sentiments respecting satanic inspiration, 128*; ecce-mum on Mr. Sharp, by Z. Macauley, 129*.

INDEX.

Holland, Historical Documents respecting, 67, et seq.; see Bonaparte, Louis.

Horne's Doctrine of the Trinity, 381, 2; merit of the compendium, 382; injudicious assertions respecting 1 John v. 7, 382.

Hughes's Travels in Sicily, Greece, and Albania, 301, et seq., & 526, et seq.; remarks on modern travels, 301; on the requisites for a classical tourist, 303; present state of Sicily, 304; site of Agrigentum, ib.; Sicilian harvest-home, 305; author's puerile representation of the power of music, ib.; Castro Giovanni, 306; Syracuse, ib.; the catacombs of San Giovanni, 307; singular disappearance of all traces of habitation at Tychea, 308; the fountain Cyane, ib.; il paradiso, 309; the ear of Dionysius, ib.; Catania, ib.; view of sunrise from Etna, 310; Brydone's infidel cavil exposed, 311; procession of the Bava at Messina, ib.; superstition of the Messinese, 313; ancient flute, 314; size and population of Zante, ib.; state of society in the Ionian islands, 315; anecdote illustrative of the expectations of emancipation by England entertained by the Greeks, ib.; classical jollification on the top of Mount Cotylum, 316; entasis in the columns of the Parthenon, 317; on the dilapidations of Athens, ib.; ne plus ultra of John Bullism, 318; new literary association at Athens, ib.; author's memoir of Ali Pasha, 526, et seq.; remarks on the cession of Parga, 543; misrepresentations of the 'Quarterly Review,' 545; Col. Leake's and de Brossel's opinions of the Parghiotes, 546; general remarks on the author's style, &c., 547, see Ali Pasha.

Hyatt's Sermons on the seven epistles in the Apocalypse, 165, et seq.; qualities of the sermons, 165, 6; specimen, 168; antiquaries vindicated from the author's charge of giving a preference to the antiquities of heathenism, 169.

Hymn-books, remarks on, 194.

Ignorance, popular, evils of, 205, et seq.; see Foster.

Insanity, ancient opinions respecting, 128; its curable nature, 130; not on the increase, 133; see Burrows.

Ionian islands, state of society in the, 315.

Java, history and topography of, 105, et seq.; see Raffles.

Jeffreys's Delineations of Van Diemen's land, 131*, et seq.; its insularity and natural advantages, 135*; traversed by Lieut. J. ib.; reptiles and bush-rangers, ib.; great mountain lake, or spring-head, ib.; character of author's performance, 136*.

John Bull, portrait of, 293.

John Bullism, ne plus ultra of, 318.

Jones's New Version of the first three chapters of Genesis, 230, et seq.; pretensions of the author, 230; his substitution of planned for created inadmissible, ib.; hypothesis of the intention of Moses, 231; on the phrase 'after its kind,' 232; exceptionable statements of Dr. J. relative to the tendency of the Mosaic account of the fall, 233; strange paraphrase of Rom. viii. 3., 234; censure of Farmer, 235; qualifications of a biblical translator stated, 236; Belsham a commentator suited to the dark ages, ib.

Keats's Lamia and other Poems, 158*, et seq.; sketch of the author's literary career, 158*; ode to autumn, 159*; ode to fancy, 160*; ode on Robin Hood, 161*; argument of 'Lamia' with extracts, 163*; extract from 'the eve of St. Agnes,' 167*; estimate of Mr. Keats's poetical talents and moral attainments, 169*; cant of the 'cockney school' about the Grecian mythology, ib.

Kennicott, Granville Sharp's controversy with, 111*.

Labour, history of its depreciation, 47;

irre cause
plan for le
Letters fr
1813-4, nadotte, 2
287; ren
gen-op-z Lusiad, the 561; ci
publicati
M'Adam o
Johnson
Mr. M'A
public m
tolls, ib.
M'Leod's
seq.; bo
order of tiger w 200*; l
as the ra Malortie's,
379, et s
litary li
work, 3
Maturin's
marks
the pro
ter of th
of his w
549; c
on the vantage
futility
lustrate
Marsh,
the Jew
charact
of a se
dream,
romance
Mentz, d
Messina,
Mickle's
of, 561
Milman's
injurio
drama
good t
racter
between 91, 2;
Simon,
96; 1
devoti
tures
poem
Mitchel
Mollien

INDEX.

the cause of it, the rise of prices, 54;
 an for lessening the supply, 62.
 ers from Germany and Holland in 813-4, 286, et seq.; character of Beradotte, 286; interior of a Dutch family, 287; remarks on the attack on Ber-en-op-zoom, 288.
 iad, the, liberties taken with by Mickle, 261; circumstances of its original ublication, 570.
 Adam on Road-making, 196, 7; Dr.
 ohnson's opinion of happiness, 196; Mr. M'A.'s principles, 197; waste of ublic money in the application of ills, ib.
 Leod's Voyage to Africa, 198*, et seq.; boundaries of Dahomy, 199*; rder of half heads, ib.; snake and iger worship, ib.; human sacrifices, 200*; Dahomian tyrants not so bad s the radicals, ib.
 ortie's, de, Treatise on Topography, 179, et seq.; deficiency of English military literature, 379; contents of the work, 380.
 turin's Sermons, 547, et seq.; remarks on the discrepancy between he professional and literary characer of the author, 547; general review f his works, 548; portrait of a curate, 549; character of the sermons, 550;
 on the love of change; ib.; alleged advantage of a standard of orthodoxy, 551; utility of the established standard, illustrated by the conduct of Bishop Marsh, ib.; extraordinary character of the Jewish prophets, 552.
 ——— Melmoth, a tale, 553, et seq.;
 character of the hero, 553; description of a scene in Spain, 555; Moncada's dream, 557; author's apology for writing romances, 558.
 entz, description of, 4, 161.
 lessina, procession of the Bara at, 311.
 ickle's translation of the Lusiad, merits
 of, 561.
 ilman's Fall of Jerusalem, 87, et seq.;
 injurious influence of the stage on the drama, 87; difficulty of writing a good tragedy, 88; business and character of the present poem, 89; scene between Javan and Miriam, 90; hymn, 91, 2; speech of John the tyrant, 93; of Simon, 94; analysis pursued, 95; hymn, 96; Dr. Johnson's condemnation of devotional poetry disproved, 97; strictures on the construction of the poem, ib.
 Mitchell's Latin Exercises, 381.
 ollicien's Travels in Africa, 10, et seq.;

remarks on exploratory expeditions, 10; account of the author, 11; the baobab, 12; anecdote of a damsel of Cayor, 13; progress of Mahomedanism in Cayor, ib.; origin of the kingdom, 14; description of the Joloffs, ib.; and Laubés, 15; name of Jesus Christ supposed to be a spell, 17;
 singular custom of Canel, ib.; Foutatoro, 18; initiation of the Almousieri, ib.;
 the diavandus, ib.; the Poulas, ib.;
 discovery of the sources of the Gau-bia and Rio Grande, 19; description of them, 20; Timbo, the capital of Fouta Jallon, ib.; source of the Senegal, 21; slave police of the territory, ib.; estimate of the work, 22.
 Monastery, the, a romance, 244, et seq.;
 on the introduction of supernatural agents as machinery, 244; sketch of the tale, 245; father Philip's encounter with the white lady, 245; father Philip before the abbot, 247; absurdities of the story, 250; description of Glendearg, 252.
 Morgan's Sketches of the Philosophy of Life, 268, et seq.; remarks on the modern systems of physiology, 268; objections to the dogmas of the organists, 270; Mr. Haslam's distinction of instinct from reason, 271; dangerous position of Sir C. M. relative to the power of moral resistance, 272; his work characterized, 273.
 Mythology, Grecian, affected admiration of, exposed, 169; * demoralizing effect of, 213.
 Nares's Discourses on the Three Creeds, 184, et seq.; * lord Carnarvon's declaration with respect to the Athanasian creed, 184; * Dr. N.'s hypothesis examined, that the allegations of objectors arise from mistake, 185; * the third creed of unknown date and authorship, ib.; Dr. N.'s quibble about universalis, 186; * sophistical defence of the clause, ib.; on St. Paul's expression, form of doctrine, 187; * vidication of Towgood from the author's aspersions, 188; * on the homage offered to our Saviour, 189.*
 New Holland, first discovered by Torres, 133; * its animal productions, 136; *
 see New South Wales and O'Hara.
 New South Wales, mal-administration of the British settlements there, 132; *
 first British settlement at Sidney, 133; * character of the country,
 134; * Blue Mountains, 137; * banks

INDEX.

- of the Lachlan, 138; * singular termination of the Lachlan in a morass, 139; * course and issue of the Macquarrie, 142; * see Oxley and Wentworth.
- O'Hara's History of New South Wales, 131, et seq.; * deficiency of works on colonial policy, 131; * fatuity of our colonial policy, 132; * discovery of New Holland by Torres, 133; * first British settlement at Sidney, ib.; character of the country near Port Jackson, 134; * animal productions, 136; * nature of Mr. O'H's publication, 137.*
- Omniscience of God, remarks on, 483.
- Ormsby's Letters from the Continent, 283, et seq.; eulogy on lord Castlereagh, 284; silly story about 'les jambons de Mayence,' ib.; author's sycophancy and blunders, 285.
- Oxley's Journals of Expeditions in New South Wales, 131, et seq.; topographical character of the tract bordering the Lachlan, 139; * disappointment of the explorators on finding the Lachlan terminate in a swamp, 139; * discover a tumult, 141; * second expedition to trace the course of the Macquarrie, ib.; its termination in a shoal-lake, 142; * Castlereagh and Hastings' rivers, 142, 3; * return to Port Stephens, 143.*
- Parga, its cession boasted of by Ali Pasha, 539; cruelty and impolicy of the transaction, 543; value of the territory, 544; vindication of the Parghiotes, 545, 6.
- Parliamentary Reform, exertions to promote, 120.*
- Parnell's Letter to the Editor of the Quarterly Review, 101.
- Philalethes's New Version of St. Paul's Epistles, 277, et seq.; plan and merits of the volume, 277; comparison of passages in author's text with Griesbach, 278; version of Col. i. 3—11, 280; examination of the same, 281; version continued, ib.; improved renderings, 283.
- Physiology, modern systems of, examined, 268.
- Pompeii, excavations at, 150, * et seq.; see Gell and Gandy.
- Poor Laws not the cause of the excess of population, 50; letter of Evelyn respecting, 586.
- Population, in what respects excessive and how, 51, 53.
- Preaching, hints respecting, 79, 100, 340.
- Preaching, state of, during the Protectorate, 146.
- Press, the, on the power of, 193.
- Prevesa seized on and pillaged by Ali Pasha, 538.
- Priestley, Dr., his reception in America, 44.
- Priestley's funeral sermon for Sibree, 184, et seq.; character of the deceased, 185.
- Protectorate, state of things during, 146, 151.
- Psalms, the, new version and exposition of, 342; see Fry.
- Quarterly Review, Parnell's letter to the Editor of the, 101; its misrepresentation of the affairs of Parga, exposed, 545.
- Raffles's History of Java, 105, et seq.; general estimate of the work, 105; physical recommendations of the island, 106; its soil and climate, ib.; insalubrity confined to Batavia, 107; ill-chosen site of the capital, ib.; volcanic character of the island, 108; eruption of 1772, ib.; ditto in 1815, 109; indigenous trees, teak, upas, &c. ib.; animals, 110; specific varieties in the natives, 111; the Javans, ib.; population and native government, 112; oppression of the Dutch government, 113; early marriages general, 114; Chinese settlers, ib.; slaves, 115; description of the villages, 116; costume, 117; singular mode of blackening the teeth for ornament, 118; dietetic habits, ib.; agriculture, ib.; fertility of the soil, 119; natural calendar, 120; tenure of lands, ib.; pernicious effects of the system of fiscal extortion, 122; arts and manufactures, 123; commerce, ib.; amiable character of the peasantry, 125; religion and laws, 126; architectural remains, 127; literature, ib.
- Relics, ancient and modern pilferers of, 574.
- Religion of mankind, Burnside on, 501. et seq.
- Renals's Exhortation to becoming behaviour in religious assemblies, 98.
- Rhenish confederation, impolicy of dissolving it, 159.
- Rhine, the, historical associations connected with, 1; its various character, 2; transactions on its banks, 158; course of, 164.
- Road-making, new principles of, 197.

Rousseau, result
cation, 368.

St. Neot, biogr
—'s, Han

graphical ac

Satanic inspirati

Sharp, Granvi

seq.; * see H

Sheppard's Inq

author's prin

is essential t

principle no

tianity, 239

in which a C

ib.; unlimited

with the duty

nicipal and

241; specifi

justifiable se

ance, how f

of standing

for them exp

the country

Sibree, funeral

Sicily, present

Travels.

Sierra Leone C

Simeon's Hora

how far a d

ficiently cr

interpretati

biguous lan

specting re

sermon on j

the purificati

on Exod. vii

26, 7, 85;

racter of th

Slave trade,

abolishing,

Suicide not m

than on the

Suli, invaded

quest of, 52

Taylor, Bp.

guage respec

ties, 146;

Timmins's Rem

I N D E X.

- result of his principles of edu-368.
- biographical account of, 573.
- Hants, and Cornwall, topo-cal account of, 572.
- inspiration, remarks on, 128.*
- Granville, Memoirs of, 105, et see Hoare.
- God's Inquiry on War, 236, et seq. ;
his principles stated, that coercion essential to government, 237 ; this principle not at variance with Christy, 239 ; inquiry as to the cases in which a Christian may bear arms, limited military service incompatible with the duty of a Christian, 240 ; mutual and military service compared, specific succours to foreign allies a valuable service, 26 ; popular resistance how far justifiable, 242 ; evil of standing armies, ib. ; hollow plea of them exposed, 243 ; real dangers of country, ib.
- funeral sermon for Mr. 184.
- present state of, 304 ; see Hughes's works.
- Leone Company, origin of, 122.*
- Dr. Horæ Homileticæ, 77. et seq. ; far a desideratum, 78 ; not sufficiently critical, 79 ; principles of interpretation, ib. ; specimen, 81 ; ambiguous language of the author respecting regeneration, ib., et seq. ; sermon on justification, 83 ; sermon on purification of the leper, ib. ; sermon on Exod. vii. 3, 84 ; sermon on Rom. x.
7, 85 ; analysis and general character of the work, 86.
- trade, formation of society for fishing, 124.*
- is not more prevalent in England than on the Continent, 134.
- invaded by Ali Pasha, 555 ; conquest of, 537.
- Dr. Bp. Jeremy, his strange language respecting unavoidable infirmities, 146 ; letters from, 582, 5.
- Dr. Clarke's Remarks on the foreknowledge of God, 382, et seq. ; character of the work, 382 ; Dr. Clarke's notion of the Divine omniscience analysed, 383 ; author's successful management of the argumentum ad hominem, 384 ; syllabus of the contents, 386.
- Thoughts on Death, &c., 580 ; heterogeneous character and commendable design of the compilation, ib.
- Topography, de Malortie's Treatise on, 379.
- Translation, its inadequacy, 560 ; on free translation, 561 ; contrasted specimens of, 562.
- Trinity, Horne on the doctrine of the, 381.
- Van Diemen's Land, discovered to be an island by Bass and Flinders, 135 ; its natural advantages, &c. ib. ; see Jeffreys.
- Walker, rev. Rob. Memoir of, 173.
- War, Duty of Christians with respect to, 236, et seq. ; see Sheppard.
- Watts, Dr., his hymn book in danger of being superseded, 193 ; * exceptionable hymns by, 195.*
- Wentworth's description of New South Wales, &c. 131, et seq. ; * author's statements respecting the mal-administration of the British settlements, 132 ; * merits of his volume, 136.*
- Wordsworth's River Duddon, 170, et seq. ;
remarks on the author's literary superannuation, 170 ; sonnet apologetical for Peter Bell, 171 ; comparison of it with a sonnet of Milton's, ib. ; Mr.
W. insusceptible of the ludicrous, 172 ; memoir of Robert Walker, 173, et seq. ; remarks on Mr. W.'s lyrics and blank verse, 177 ; three sonnets, 178 ; instance of catachresis, 179 ; lament of Mary Queen of Scots, 179—181 ; ode, 181 ; inscription, 182 ; sonnet, 183 ; ditto on the death of George III., ib. ; the prioress's tale, ib. ; parting remarks on Mr. W.'s genius, ib.
- Zante, size and population of, 314.

ERRATA.

* * In the paging of the volume, pp. 105 to 198 occur twice over; (the second series are distinguished in the Index by an asterisk;) and pp. 397 to 501 are dropped. The signatures follow in their proper order.

- Page 172 line 5 for covering read convenient.
194 15 insert we at the commencement of the line.
198 title of Art. IX., for America read Africa.
214 line 18 for hope it, read hate it.
220 11 from bottom, for insanity read inanity.
245 11 ferrar read feuar.
268 4 diffusee read diffusæ.
529 29 for Soliarè, read Voliarè.
580 title of Art. VII., for dedth read death.

